1) Two possible effects that resulted from Allen Stanford's 20/20 Cricket Competition were all the citizens of each Caribbean country merged to support their players to go towards one goal. This conveyed unity between Caribbean countries. Also, the Caribbean gained recognition for their cricketing skills by the entire world through the competition.

2) Two contributions the governments can make towards the development of sport in small communities are to provide facilities in small communities so that the people settled in that area can be introduced to or enjoy a sport. Secondly, the government can host sporting games in small communities which will attract spectators also it will make people interested in the sport due to their desire to win.

3) One benefit a country may gain from hosting the Summer Olympic Games is recognition from other countries around the world which in turn will increase the number of tourists and advertise the history and highlights of that particular country.

4) ~~Serena Williams~~ Serena Williams
